The hardy pioneer as he scaled its mountains, wound along by the side of its rivers, or penetrated its forests, proceeded with wary step and slow, rifle in hand, and ready for instant conflict. Many a time has the motion caused by the winds of heaven, been thought to mark the presence of some lurking foe; and many a time has the rifle-shot dissipated the travellers fears, though it took no life. None but the fool would consider it an impeachment of the travellers courage that he moved with caution, nor of his wisdom, that he sometimes shot at the wind. The slavery discussion well deserves the title of the dark and bloody ground of modern polemics; the tomahawk and scalping-knife are fit symbols of the weapons often used, whilst the shriek for freedom, not unlike the Indian war-whoop, has lent its maddening influence to the fight. Aware of this, I am not surprised to find you, in your Conservative Replies, charging upon me opinions which I do not entertain, and which--I write it after carefully reading over all I have published on the subject--I have not expressed. And you will not understand me as intending to impeach either your intelligence or your candour, when I add, you seem to me to have misapprehended the scope of my argument, and the position I have assumed, both in my Christian Doctrine of Slavery and in my Letters, subsequently addressed to yourself. And...
